

Budget Crisis to Affect Students, Faculty

The NU Board of Regents has decided to wait until next month before determining how to handle the university's most recent budget crisis.

Meeting in Lincoln last Friday, the Regents were faced with the possibility of a $1.4 million revenue shortage to operate the university system this year. The deficit was caused by a drop in tuition payments resulting from the passage of LB 408 — which liberalized residency requirements — and a drop in total student credit hours below what was expected for the 1972-73 school year.

The shortage is equal to approximately 800 full-time equivalent students on the Omaha and Lincoln campuses. The decline in enrollments will cause a reassessment of the next year's budget to be made. The revised budget will be considered in one month at the same time a solution is arrived at by the Board concerning the impending deficit.

NU President Durward Varner listed several possible alternate methods to deal with the budget problem. One would involve seeking a special appropriation from the Nebraska Legislature next year. Aside from already instituted expenditure cutbacks at UNO and UNL, other possibilities include a "one-time" special assessment against university students or raising tuition costs a semester earlier. The new tuition hikes were originally scheduled to go into effect next fall.

Other alternatives mentioned were internal adjustments such as scholarship cutbacks, use of federal funds and use of a $120,000 UNO reserve account.

About thirty per cent of the budget deficit was attributed to the Unicameral's passage of LB 408 which lets out-of-state students claim residency after spending one year on a Nebraska campus. At UNO it was estimated that over 200 students would be affected by the residency requirement change.

UNO Chancellor Ronald Roskens has already taken steps to deal with the matter and said he has put a freeze on additional faculty hiring until the situation clears.

Mall In, Parking Out

The Board of Regents gave UNO's campus planning the go-ahead Friday on construction of a classroom-office building on the mall.

A stipulation was included that the building be moved as far west as possible towards Gene Eppley Library to preserve the view of the Administration Building from Dodge Street.

The Regents' decision gave approval to the recommendations of a UNO ad-hoc committee on re-evaluation of the mall site, as presented by Chancellor Roskens.

The committee was formed at the Regents' request as a result of protests raised by members of the university and community attempting to preserve the site. Faculty, staff, students, alumni, and members of the community served on the committee.

After considering UNO's campus plan and the question of aesthetics involved, they decided to compromise. They concluded there was no alternative location for the building on UNO's crowded campus in keeping with the concept of an academic zone and future plans. However, the committee wished to keep the area intact as much as possible. They especially expressed concern over the unveiled parking lots lining Dodge Street.

The resulting recommendations consisted of shifting the building, which was formerly planned near the center of the mall, to within 30 feet of the Library. This means eliminating the parking lot on the east side to the Library.

In addition, the committee proposed that the Kayser Hall parking lot be replaced with a green area to be completed at the same time as the new building. They urged moving with all possible speed to screen all parking lots, especially those with Dodge Street frontage. These recommendations were also accepted by the Regents. The only problem is, as Dr. Rex Engbretson, head of campus planning, cited, "It's going to be difficult parking on that side of campus."

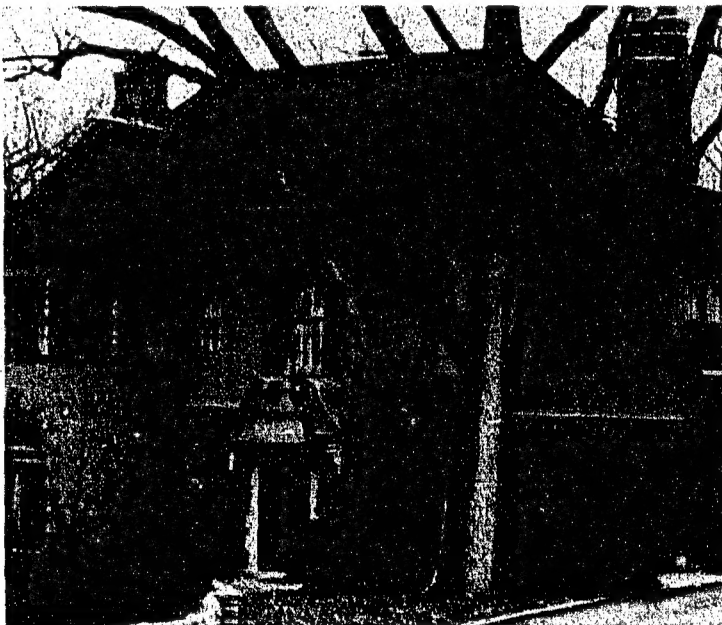

A number of elm trees will still have to be destroyed to make room for the building on the mall. This was a matter of major contention previously held by opponents of the construction. However, Roskens also presented to the board a report on the status of the elm trees in the area.

The study was conducted by a committee made up of UNL professors of plant pathology, horticulture and forestry, plus the

Go West, Young University

The Regents voted 5-1 last week to purchase this property for $85,000. Opposing the move was Omaha Regent James Moylan with Regent Raun of Minden absent and Robert Prokop of Papillion abstaining. The move was made as part of UNO's westward expansion and will provide additional office space. The action was staunchly resisted by area residents. The property is located at 6608 Farnam Street.

Regents Compromise on Academic Freedom

Following a fiery session involving conflicts between Regents and teachers Thursday, the NU Board of Regents voted to adopt a new set of university bylaws last Friday.

Originally, the revised bylaw proposals were recommended by the University Governance Commission, then submitted to the Regents for review. The Board made several changes in the recommendations which resulted in opposition from university faculty and staff representatives.

Teachers argued that the Regents' version of the bylaws would not adequately protect academic freedom and were unacceptable concerning job security and contract renewal. Others expressed concern about the role of the campus ombudsmen under the revised proposal.

At the regular Friday meeting the Regents amended a portion of the bylaws to recognize the faculty members' right to academic freedom beyond those rights provided for by the U.S. Civil Rights Act.

Rules pertaining to the ombudsman's function were altered to allow him to actively "assist" in solving problems in the university rather than simply "initiate inquiries" as had been called for in the first version.

Also included Friday was standard phraseology insuring that university hiring and promotion practices would be based only on merit and would not discriminate on the grounds of race, religion, color, sex, national origin or political affiliation.

In another matter related to the dispute over academic freedom, the Regents comprised with the wishes of faculty representatives. The Board approved reinsertion of a previously deleted section giving non-tenured teachers the right to appeal to the university grievance committee if their contracts were not renewed.

However, at the same time the board also turned down a request by the chairman of the UNL American Association of University Professors to include a clause stating that untenured teachers would be notified in writing why their contracts had not been renewed.

The adopted bylaws must now be sent to Nebraska Attorney General Clarence Meyer for study and must be finally approved by Governor Exon.

KREMLIN AWAITS ROSKENS

University of Nebraska at Omaha Chancellor Ronald W. Roskens this month will tour Russian universities, and exchange views with Soviet educators regarding approaches to higher education, as a participant in the 15th Anniversary Seminar in the U.S.S.S.R. conducted by the Research Center for the Study of Socialist Education.

Dr. Roskens and his wife will visit Moscow and Leningrad Universities, and the University of Novo Sibirskij in Siberia. Seminar participants also will see the Russian ballet, circus and opera, and other cultural events.

The Seminar originated under the leadership of Endowed Prof. Gerald Read of Kent State University following negotiation of exchange agreements with the Trade Union of Educators and Scientific Workers. The Seminar will be conducted by Prof. Read and Distinguished Prof. William Brickman of New York University, both comparative education specialists.

Dr. and Mrs. Roskens will leave Nov. 16 and return to Omaha Dec. 1. This will be their first visit to Russia.

Editorial

Congratulations are due to the winners in last week's general election and in many respects, locally at least, they bode well for the future of UNO.

Regent Kermit Hansen of Omaha received an overwhelming mandate to continue on the Board for another six years. Voters in the second regent district demonstrated that they much prefer Hansen's positive approach to the solution of problems than the approach taken by his opponent. At times various segments of the academic community may disagree with Hansen's decisions, but he seems to have the best interests of the university in mind and is a friend and proponent of higher education in Nebraska.

On the state level, we can look forward to a definite change in the composition of the Nebraska Legislature. Ernest Chambers was re-elected to the Unicameral and will be joined there next year by a core group of "Young Turks" from the Omaha and Lincoln area, among them are John Cavanaugh from the ninth district, Frank Lewis from the 45th, and Steve Fowler, former president of the UNL student body, from Lincoln.

All of these people are friends of education and will almost certainly join forces with senators such as David Stahmer of Omaha to insure that the universities, and UNO in particular, are given a fair hearing in Lincoln.

It should be kept in mind, however, that these people cannot be expected to operate in a vacuum. Students, faculty, staff, and everyone else concerned should make it a point to keep their senators informed and should constantly express support for decisions that are beneficial to the university.

From conversations with experienced representatives it can be gathered that UNO has been lax in the past in looking out for and protecting its own interests at the state capitol. This might have been understandable in the past, but now the people are there and the rest is up to us.

La Causa to Meet

La Causa (Chicano Association of U.S. Students for Action) is giving UNO Mexican-Americans an energetic, if late, organizational push this semester.

Thursday, Nov. 16, at 1:30 p.m. in room 303 of the Student Center, an informal social hour will be held to bring the Chicanos on campus together and get a head count for the La Causa Organization.

The following day, civil rights advocate, Mr. Santiago Juarez will speak on the Chicano movement in Colorado at 1:00 in the ballroom. At 2:30 the same afternoon a film, "Mexican-Americans — The Invisible Minority," will be shown. Both the movie and speaker are jointly sponsored by SPO and La Causa.

The programs are part of an overall effort of La Causa to increase their numbers and promote unity among Chicanos. Advisor Jim Ramirez said, "Our purpose is bringing about an awareness of the importance of education to Chicanos and making UNO more aware of the Mexican-American and his problems."

In keeping with their goal to promote higher education, the organization aids new students at UNO in obtaining financial aid, applications, and catalogues. At present, there are 80 Chicano students on campus and ten of these are freshmen students. Ramirez believes that the efforts of La Causa last year definitely increased the enrollment of Chicano students in the University. Last spring, members talked individually with a number of graduating high school seniors around the city.

Similar recruitment programs in addition to Chicano cultural awareness programs will be held this year.

More Mall Action

city forester and a biologist from UNO.

They found that out of 35 elm trees on the mall surveyed, seven trees tested positive for Dutch Elm disease; and of these, three were dead. 23 trees were infested with borers and 26 were found suffering from wetwood disease in which the tree bleeds sap and the leaves turn yellow.

Although 24 trees were considered in average condition, the committee reported that not one tree in the 35 could be defined as a "specimen class" tree. Engebretson pointed out that of the seven trees that will be destroyed due to construction, three are suspected of Dutch Elm disease, one has borers, and only one is in average condition.

Based on these findings, the committee concluded that attempts to prevent infection of the other trees may delay the loss, but it won't keep the trees from eventually dying. Elmwood Park was cited as a continual carrier of the disease onto the UNO campus.

The committee recommended removing the dead trees immediately from the area and better care taken of the remaining trees. They also urged a tree planting program begin now in accordance with the building plans. In this way, "As the old trees die out, mature trees can be coming up underneath them and the area will not be left bare of trees," said Engebretson.

He went on to say that rather than block the view of the Administration Building, the new building will "open up the view . . . because the trees blocking it are on the building site and will be removed."

A Guest Editorial

Janitor's Law

Not too many years ago UNO had regulations that governed the conduct of students in the various areas of the Student Center. There was a little old grey-haired lady that used to enforce a rule that no one was allowed to bring books or coats into the cafeteria. If someone brought either in the cafeteria they were forced to leave and deposit them in the check room.

At the same time there were rules prohibiting being in a prone position anywhere in the building (to keep people from sleeping), the playing of cards any other place than the card tables, or the taking of food or drinks out of the appropriate vending areas.

These rules have been relaxed or been repealed but other more subtle devices have taken their place. It is forbidden to take food or beverages into the ballroom. This is justified by the new furniture that they purchased when it was changed from a dining area to a meeting room and study area.

Downstairs the ex-Ouampi Room is noted for its gourmet eating facilities and the immaculate surroundings. Recently redecorated in early cheap design and given the title of "coffehouse." It is open from 6:30 in the morning til 2:30 p.m. It then closes three or more hours to be cleaned up.

The question raised here is whether or not the Student Center is run at the pleasure of the janitors or the students. Why does everyone have to be evicted for this length of time when the job is over and done in just over an hour? Could not the cleaning staff work on half of the room and then work on the other half leaving the room open?

Why do we constantly keep being treated like peons when in fact we have every right to expect the same service any customer gets. If you should happen to sample the food served in the "Ouam" you might be searching for an antidote.

If Nader's raiders were to descend on the food service and try an on the spot check it would probably be the last time we ever heard of that illustrious group. Our course is clear and our duty apparent, we should have a lottery and pick a guinea pig. Then we should make him live solely on food service poison and when he dies or is hospitalized we can lay a class action lawsuit on the administration.

A Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

A long time has come to pass since the students have heard Rich Brown's latest prediction on when (and where) the Spring edition of last year's Breakaway (magazine) will be forthcoming. Maybe you could find out since no one can find Mr. Brown on campus.

A student,

Entertainment This Week

Friday thru Sunday, Nov. 17-19. University Theatre. 8 p.m. Blue Denim, a play by James Herlihy and William Noble about the problems of communication between younger and older generations. It encompasses the insecurity of youth and the failure of parents who realize they don't know their children. (Pregnancy, and abortion abound.)

Dr. Clark is directing the production. Cast members are William Barth, Steven Miller, Betsy Turner, Jim Buda, Eileen Stark and Liz Melcher.

Students, faculty and staff are admitted free with I.D. Tickets cost $1.50 for the public and will be on sale in the University ticket office before each performance and during the week.

Wednesday, Nov. 15. SPO Documentary, Wilmington People's Park. 2:30 p.m., MBSC 314.

Friday, Nov. 17. Library Conference Center Auditorium. 7:30 p.m. SPO Movies, Something for Everyone & They Shoot Horses, Don't They?

Sunday, Nov. 19. Library Conference Center Auditorium. SPO foreign film, La Ronde, a satire on sexual behavior set in turn-of-the-century Vienna. It comments definitely on the futility of transitory relationships involving love and lovemaking.

Sunday, Nov. 19. MBSC Ballroom. 7:30 p.m. John Denver in concert. Students, faculty and staff free with I.D. Part-time students, $1.50 and public $2.

Jon Wilcox, a singer-songwriter of the Hank Williams variety, will appear here Tuesday and Wednesday nights from 7:30 until 10:30 p.m., MBSC Ballroom.

Wilcox has been called "the best new songwriter around," by Barry Oliver, co-ordinator of the Berkely folk festival, and has also received plaudits by Sing Out Magazine and Manny Greenhill, Joan Baez' manager.

The San Franciscan has made appearances in almost all of the major folk concerts and folk festivals. SPO President Sandy Baxter urges everyone to attend.

Blankenship Elected To School Board?

He is tall and lanky with two-toned oxfords on his feet. He wears dress slacks with a shirt and tie (which usually doesn't match) and he may be seen walking at a fast pace all over campus. He is majoring in math and pre-Med and he makes practically straight "A's" in all of his classes.

His name is D. Michael Blankenship, a UNO senior, and as of the Gateway deadline, a new member of the Omaha Board of Education. The 21 year-old currently leads his opponent Lloyd Berg by almost 300 votes. A winner will not be declared until all the absentee and disabled ballots are counted. "I'm confident I'll win," Blankenship claims. "During the primary last spring I picked up a lot of strength when the absentee ballots were counted." As a matter of fact, Blankenship also outran Berg during the primary.

"My own expense was about $150.00 and the total expense of the campaign was $242.82." This included yard signs, small campaign cards, and various leaflets and handouts. "My opponent claims he spent $1,000 in his campaign. But, I question that. He had ten billboards, and simple arithmetic will show you that you can't finance a campaign with ten billboards with $1,000. I think I was outspent eight to one by my opponent." Blankenship also pointed out that his opponent was endorsed by the Board of Education's so-called "orange ticket," which was passed out by all incumbent members of the board.

Concerning the orange ticket, Blankenship questioned the legality of the board members drawing up their slate of candidates and distributing them to the public. "I was out campaigning at a grade school in West Omaha and a teacher told me that they had to mail out orange tickets at her own expense. I asked her why she did it and she said 'well, I like my job.'"

Another aspect concerning the orange tickets was its abundance at various grocery stores and shops throughout Omaha. Blankenship felt that if the school board was allowed to put their orange sheets in grocery stores, then so were the other school board candidates. "I was denied the right to put my literature in one store which was distributing the orange sheet."

Blankenship also emphasized that he was the only candidate elected to the school board who was not on the orange ticket. Six of the newly-elected school board members were on the sheet out of the seven elected. The election returns also point out that all members on the ticket were elected by wide margins over the rest of the field.

Blankenship . . .
"My views concerning school matters are completely non-partisan. Education is everyone's business."

'rotten education'
Concerning his reasons for running for school board, Blankenship felt, "I thought I had a rotten education. I come from a poor family, so I've always thought education was important. I want to work at it and do my best. I just want to be able to go to medical school. One area of concern is the tenure system that teachers have. I think this causes many, many bad teachers. Many teachers have been teaching many years and sometimes they are not aware of new teaching methods. I remember when I was in junior high school, one teacher stood me up in front of the class crying, and said I would never be any good and never make it to college. I will always remember that as long as I live. Why? Because that teacher was a very poor teacher."

Curriculum not equal
Blankenship also feels curriculum is not equal throughout the Omaha Public School system. "I went to high school at South, and I didn't feel we had some of the things that other high schools had. Each high school is different. For example, modular scheduling didn't work at South High School, but, it seems to be working at Burke, and it's even working at Ryan High School which is a parochial school. So, I think it depends on the different administrations in the various schools.

"I've only been through Burke High School once, and I do plan to visit all of the high schools and grade schools when I'm in office. Don't get me wrong, I don't plan to take anything away from the newer high schools, because they have excellent facilities, and I'm proud of them. I just want to take the existing older schools and bring them up to equilibrium to the newer schools."

Blankenship emphasized that curriculum was not equal in some of the various departments in the schools. "I think the English department at Central High

THE OUTER GATE

The recent school board election raises several points. All candidates on the so-called "orange ticket" were reelected to office with the exception of Lloyd Berg, who was running for the Short Term school board seat. As of the Gateway deadline (last Sunday afternoon), UNO student, D. Micheal Blankenship, is leading Berg for the seat. (See adjoining story.) As it stands now, Blankenship will probably be announced the winner, if he hasn't been announced the winner already.

But, the main point of emphasis that this writer would like to stress is the use of the orange ticket by the incumbent school board members running for reelection. If you don't already know, the orange ticket is that little orange piece of paper that you may have picked up at your neighborhood grocery store which says on the top, something to the effect, that you should vote for the following seven people to the school board. Why? Because the ticket claims, these people are friends of the schools.

Now, before we go any further, I don't want to give the impression, through my sarcasm, that the people on the orange ticket aren't qualified, because most of them are. This writer even voted for some of the members listed on the orange ticket. What I question is the practice of using the orange ticket.

To begin with, all of the members listed on the ticket were incumbent board members. This would give one the impression that all the members of the school board band together to get each other elected all the time. It is my premise that this is done more out of the friendship the board members have for each other, rather than any feeling that they think each other is qualified for the office.

This is wrong. It discourages debate and conflict on the board. I don't suggest that every time the Omaha Board of Education has a meeting that they should argue and hit each other over the head with ball bats. But I think each board member should be individual in his thinking and constantly looking for new ideas.

Thus, with this election, we had seven board seats up for election. Only one seat changed hands. And, that seat was won through a hard fought close race. I think it is a sad state of affairs that our school board members don't have to compete for their jobs a lot harder than they do. Thus, I think in future elections, the voters should boycott the orange ticket candidates.

If we discourage the orange ticket, I feel we would have a better turnover of board members. Any type of governing board should have a turnover of officers from time to time. It encourages new ideas and impetus of these ideas.

Maybe if we can't get rid of the orange ticket, we should pass a law limiting service on the school board to maybe two four year terms. Thus, we can end this domination of the school board by the same people for long periods of time.

Another election race that can be tied into the school board race, was the election of the County Judges. Two were selected from a field of candidates to fill the two County Judge posts.

The thing that struck this writer most was the extent of the campaigning done for the post. And, believe it or not, the two individuals elected were the same two individuals that had the biggest and most expensive campaigns.

Being so idealistic as I am, I started contemplating some of the ideas our forefathers were dying to write into the Constitution concerning the judiciary. If history serves me correct, I seemed to remember something about our judiciary being separated from politics. After all, it was a separation of powers.

Then, I started wondering why our judges had to run a political campaign to be returned to office. It seems to me that they would somehow have to become indebted to someone who may have contributed to the campaign. For example, suppose a lawyer contributed a huge amount of money to the candidate for a judgeship. Let us say the candidate was elected. Now, suppose that lawyer would have to try a case before that judge at a latter date. Don't you think the judge could possibly be prejudiced in his decision? The motive is there.

I'm not suggesting that this goes on now. The two individuals who were elected last week to the County Judgeships are highly qualified men. I'm suggesting that the possibility for abuse of power is there.

After all, we just turned one judge out of office for abuse of power.

— DAC

School outweighs any other school."

Blankenship added, "I'm not really pro-Black or Chicano, or Indian; I'm pro-human. I think everyone is entitled to a good education."

Concerning the campaign, Blankenship felt most of his strength came from his home territory in South Omaha. "I think what won the election for me was I did a lot of personal campaigning in West Omaha."

Blankenship said some of his strength may have come from the opposition to the orange ticket, but he is not sure how much opposition there was to the orange ticket. He also said he was "harrassed" because of his opposition to the orange ticket.

'not saying my partisanship'
Asked about other political ties, Blankenship said, "I'm basically a Democrat, but really I'm not saying what my partisanship is, because I'm not really that enthused about the two major parties. I couldn't accept either McGovern or Nixon."

"My views concerning school matters are completely nonpartisan. Education is everyone's business. I want to introduce new ideas and I want to work closely with my fellow board members. I have a lot to learn between now and January. I want to visit as many schools as I can and meet as many administrators and teachers as I can when I get in office."

Bulletin! Bulletin!

In last Wednesday's Gateway, it has come to the attention of this editor that there was an error in the story about Don DeFore.

We quoted Mr. DeFore as saying, "The American people are more unintelligent than they are given credit for."

The word "unintelligent" should have been "intelligent." Due to a typesetting error at the printers, and not my error, this quote came out wrong.

Thus, I apologize to Mr. DeFore concerning this mistake.

HELP THE LONELY AGED

Students needed. Rich Tompsett, chairman of the Student Center Policy Board, and Sandy Baxter, President of SPO, are requesting ten (10) students each night for one week to chaperone and provide company for the aged at the Douglas County Old People's Home. The DCOPH is located at 153rd and Maple.

It will only require one or two hours each evening and will be the week of November 27th.

If you or your organization are interested, contact Sandy Baxter, MBSC 232 or 250.

Sandy reminds that this is a chance to redeem your souls; remember, someday you'll be lonely, too.

Final Enrollment Figures In

Statistics released by the registrar's office at the University of Nebraska at Omaha show a 3.1 per cent increase in enrollment over a year ago, with an increase in resident enrollment and a decline in non-resident enrollment.

UNO now has 13,117 students, compared with 12,711 last fall. There now are 11,730 resident students, compared with 10,457 last fall. UNO now has 1,387 non-resident students, and this figure compares with 2,254 at this time last year.

The statistics, which reflect enrollment Sept. 7, show there are 6,891 full-time students (carrying 12 or more credit hours) and 6,226 part-time students. Last fall, UNO had 6,889 full-time students and 5,822 part-time students.

A breakdown of current student enrollment: affiliate nurse program, 234; inter-campus, 299; non-degree, 444; College of Arts and Sciences, 2,287; College of Engineering and Technology, 656; College of Education, 1,671; College of Business Administration, 1,093; College of Continuing Studies, 2,877; University Division, 1,349; Offutt at Offutt Air Force Base, 504; and Graduate College, 1,703.

UNO now has 7,357 men students and 5,760 women students.

Student Budget Needs Approval From Regents

Aside from the major questions that dominated last week's meeting of the NU Board of Regents, several other matters were dealt with.

It was decided to require that university student government constitutions be approved by the regents. In the same vein it was decided, on the insistence of Regent Robert Prokop, that the UNO student government budget will have to pass inspection by the board next year before going into effect.

UNO Chancellor Ronald Roskens said he had not submitted the student budget this year because he had not been asked to.

Besides dealing with current students, the regents moved into the area of alumni associations and asked that they take steps to coordinate their activities on the three campuses. The board declined to renew an agreement between UNO and the UNO Alumni Association for use of office space until next month pending negotiations among the various alumni groups.

The administration proposed to the regents that union activity on the campuses be limited to non-working hours excluding coffee breaks. The board will deal further with union matters at next month's meeting.

Ak-Sar-Ben Winners Go to Lunch

The UNO Ak-Sar-Ben (Neb-Ras-Ka spelled backwards) Scholarship recipients were honored at a luncheon in the MBSC Ballroom last Friday.

The 64 UNO students heard an address by Chancellor Ronald Roskens who told them a "balanced university needs flexibility and an open mind toward change," and were entertained by the UNO Swing Chorus.

Arts and Sciences junior Diana Fuller represented the scholarship winners and thanked the Ak-Sar-Ben royalty present for the $200 a year grants which enabled the students to spend more time on studies and related school activities.

Ak-Sar-Ben King Jack (Diesing) and Queen Molly (Davis) (yloM neeuQ and kcaJ gniK spelled backwards) were present and the Gateway editor got a free lunch.

BLAC's Meet

by Phil E. Secret

The Black Liberators for Action on Campus (BLAC) held a meeting last Friday to nominate officers for this school year. BLAC members at large will vote for the candidates of their choice on Monday, November 20th. A large voter participation is hoped for and expected. An election booth will be open at the Student Information desk in the Student Center from 9:30 till 4:30.

Brother Ben Benford, who has been Acting-Chairman of Blac for the present school year, but who declined nomination, had been a conscientious and dedicated Acting Chairman and the legacy that he passes on is admirable.

Candidates for the various offices have launched their respective campaigns and the BLAC membership is urged to pay particular attention to what the candidates have to say; show an interest even above and beyond the laudable interest that has been fashioned in the past; and VOTE in the election!

The purpose of BLAC is to promote better representation and a closer relationship of black students on campus and in the community. In order to be more effective in this task and to continue to be a viable organization.

All BLAC members have an important part to play. New committees, with the advise and consent of the BLAC membership at large will be set up in the near future. BLAC members are urged and welcomed to participate on a committee which interests them most.

The offices to be filled and the nominees for those offices are as follows: CHAIRMAN — Gloria Blair, Heshimui Iverri, Lyrs Peak, and Leroy Powell. VICE-CHAIRMAN — Dana Lampkins, and Pat Shields. SECRETARY — Debbie Blair, Eddie Bolden, Ernestine Lathan, and Loise Latimer. CORRESPONDENCE SECRETARY — Darniese Evens, Sandy Stovall, Kim Taylor, and Cheryl Wells. TREASURER — Jo Allen, Dorothy Bates, James Brightman, Sam Evens, and Jane Nash.

GONE FOR GOOD WE HOPE !

That's right—Lambda Chi Alpha plans never to have another pledge. That doesn't mean that we plan to close our doors when all our current members have graduated. We have been very successful at adapting to change throughout our history and we don't plan to stop now. Our purpose is (and always has been) to guide young men toward improvement as individuals through involvement with others.

The day has past when we let college administrators, similar organizations, and society tell us that we must subject our new members to a period called pledgship. An individual's time is too important to be wasted with a period of second-class citizenship when he is involved in an organization with as much potential for human growth as Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.

AXA has long since rid itself of the old-fashioned pledge training and hazing syndrome of the '50's. The days of janitorial apprenticeships, pledge-class cliques, dual standards of conduct, pseudo-social status, and unearned pride are hopefully gone forever. We will admit our mistakes, but in doing so, others must admit that our growth and stability have been unexcelled in the educational world.

No other collegiate organization has ever amassed the millions of members that the college fraternity system enjoys. The fact is that our system is older than most colleges and universities themselves. Along with negative connotations, we've obviously been making some genuine contributions in order to grow at the rate we've grown.

In addition to doing away with the term pledge and his status in general, we've developed a new program for promoting the growth of the individual. In this program we've tried to stress the traditional values of our fraternity: friendship, small-group living-learning atmosphere, a sense of belonging, individual growth, and worthwhile human experiences. We offer a comprehensive orientation to our fraternity and its programs, leadership development, a beautiful and inspiring ritualistic experience, and a continuing human development program as a fraternity member.

Prior to the ritual, an individual is known as an Associate Member. This is the period of time when his fraternity education is most intensified. Instead of being isolated into a separate class, however, he is brought fully into the realm of active membership—attending chapter meetings, voting, committee membership, and generally helping to run the organization.

This program is designed to overcome one of the major flaws of the entire pledge concept. An Associate Member is an individual with God-given talents and aspirations. He is a product of his former environment. We want to help that man continue to grow within his own framework. He will not be exactly like his associates. They will come from different backgrounds, and be at different levels of maturity and education. Therefore, they cannot be herded together as a pledge class.

The pledge program assumes that every man's needs are the same. Our new program gives every man credit for what he is while helping him grow as an individual. Doing away with pledges is only one of the changes that has taken place at Lambda Chi Alpha.

No matter what you've thought about fraternities in the past, we suggest that you talk to one of our members about the value of our fraternity today. Maybe you've got some changes of your own you'd like to make. If so, I promise you we'll listen.

Wrestlers Offer "Sneak Prevue"

UNO wrestling fans will be able to take a "sneak preview" of the 1972-73 Maverick mat squad when the annual intersquad matches are held Nov. 22 in the field house.

Coach Mike Palmisano will split his squad into two teams for the "match."

This year's team could possibly be one of the strongest teams in university history as they return nine lettermen from last year's NAIA second place team.

Palmisano will have to find the key early in the season as a tough schedule includes four conference champions and three conference runners-up.

Included in the list is NCAA defending champion Iowa State who will see action in the fourth annual UNO Invitational.

Paul Martinez and Phil Gonzales are the top returnees from last year's squad. Martinez placed second in the national meet and will take a career mark of 51-9-1 into the season. Gonzales was a 126-pound national champion in his freshman season and compiled a 20-3-1 record.

Other returnees include Phil Taylor (142), Craig Artist (158), Charles Mancuso (167), Terry Zegers (177), Jerry Allen (HWT), Ken Fish (167) and Dale Rubesh (190).

Palmisano will have to find replacements for national champion heavyweight Gary Kipmiller, Dennis Cozad (134), Quentin Horning (150) and Bruce Brooks (142). Together the four had a 79-22-1 mark.

Top newcomers include Terry Colton (190), Curt Bundy (126), Dave Knight (158), Don Cahill (190), Darshan Karki (150), Tim Fullerton (118), Bob Stitt (118), Jeff Danker (177), Steve Delanty (134), Jim Gregory (190), and Dave Chiesa (158).

The Mavericks will open their season on Dec. 2 with the Air Force Invitational in Colorado Springs. The first home action is Dec. 6 when UNO faces Graceland, Nebraska Wesleyan, and SW Minnesota in the field house.

Intramural News

Basketball is the name of the game as far as intramurals are concerned.

UNO Intramural Director Burt Kurth has announced that entries are now being taken for five different types of basketball activities.

Currently, three-man basketball tournaments are being held every Thursday night.

Kurth is taking entries for the co-recreational basketball experiment that allows teams made up of both men and women to compete. The rules compensate for any male advantages.

He is planning a free throw contest Nov. 16th and a basketball tournament during semester break (Jan. 11, 12, 13). Basketball league play begins with the start of the second semester.

Additional information can be obtained by contacting Kurth, field house office No. 15.

Dodge City, Kansas, isn't exactly Miami or New Orleans or Pasadena.

The southwestern Kansas city of 15,000 is known more for its Boot Hill, Front Street and other relics of the early west than for its night life.

But Dodge City has one thing in common with Miami and New Orleans and Pasadena. Dodge City is a bowl town.

Yes, folks, Dodge City is the home of the Boot Hill Bowl. And while the post season contest isn't going to rival the Orange or Sugar or Rose, it still provides smaller colleges and universities with the opportunity for post season play.

As of this writing, the Boot Hill Bowl hasn't announced the two teams that will compete in the annual contest but has announced that UNO is being considered.

An extension of a bid to the 8-2 Mavericks would mark the first time in a decade that a UNO squad has competed in any type of post season game.

Not As Costly

One thing for certain is that an appearance at Dodge City won't cost UNO as much as their 1962 trip to the All-Sports Bowl in Oklahoma City.

That trip cost the university its NCAA membership as the game wasn't sanctioned by the NCAA. Now, ten years later, UNO is trying to get back into the NCAA.

The Maverick players voted on whether to accept a bid (if offered) after the 3-0 win over Pittsburg Saturday night.

McWhorter Superb in 3-0 Win

Pittsburg—UNO, sparked by a superb performance by Charlie McWhorter, squeaked by Kansas State College at Pittsburg Saturday night to complete the school's most successful grid campaign in a decade.

Fred Tichauer's 22 yard field goal was the deciding factor in the 3-0 victory. The win gives the Mavericks a 8-2 record, the best since Al Caniglia's 1962 squad went 8-1-1.

A Military Night turnout of around 2,000 saw a fine defensive game. UNO's defense held the hosts to only 109 total yards.

But it was McWhorter, playing in his last regular season game, who stole the show. He was little short of great as he rushed for 181 yards on 41 carries and was the UNO offense.

The North High graduate set three individual records with his performance which was accomplished without fullback Billy Walker. Walker suffered a groin injury in practice and didn't suit up for the contest.

McWhorter's 181 yards gave him 2161 for his four year career surpassing the 2152 mark set by Bill Englehardt. It should be noted that Charlie gained only five yards as a freshman and 157 his sophomore year as he was used as a backup for Phil Wise.

It was Wise's record for rushes in one game that the slippery McWhorter broke. Charlie's 41 tries is five more than Wise's 36 set in a 1969 game.

McWhorter also broke his own mark of 237 rushes in one season by totaling 243 for this year.

All told McWhorter gained 188 of UNO's 250 yards of total offense.

A big part of McWhorter's success can be attributed to the blocking by the Maverick offensive line. Centers Jim Kros and John Thomsen, guards Mike Giancaspro, Ken Fish and Ed Edwards, and tackles Dale Rubesh, Tony Eller and Earl Baker provided McWhorter with the necessary room to run.

Their blocking plus McWhorter's quickness and moves helped UNO control the ball and rush for 214 yards.

But it was a Pittsburg mistake that eventually gave the Mavericks their win.

On the second play of the final quarter, Frank Golwitzer punted from the UNO 16. The ball bounded off the Gorilla's Leon Lowe and reserve tight end Mike Patterson covered the loose ball on the Pittsburg 44.

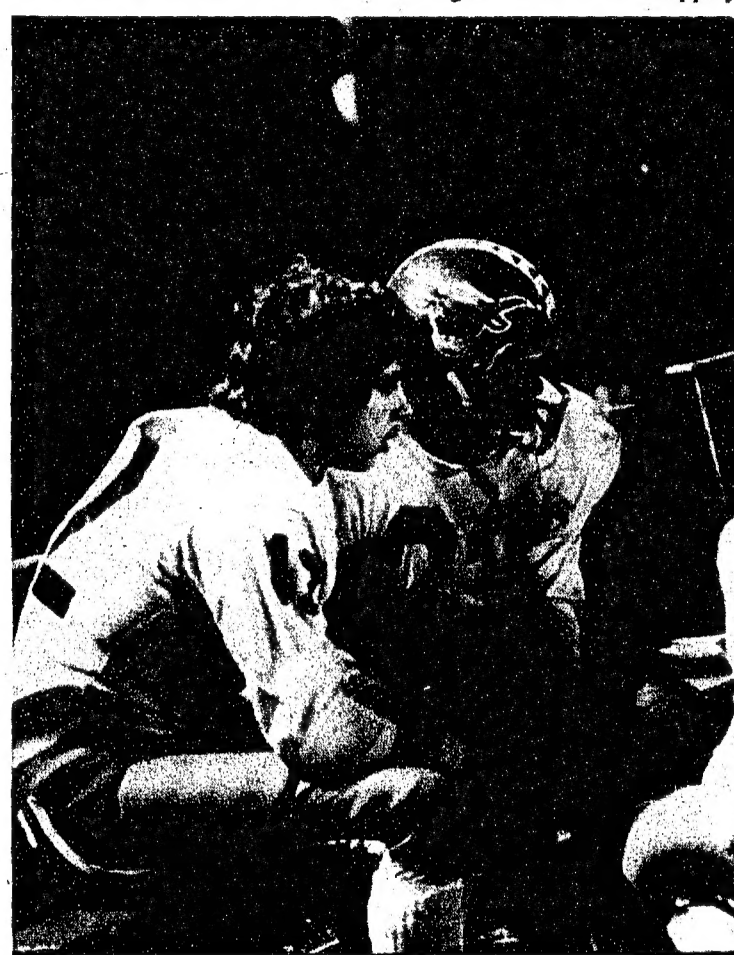

McWhorter carried six times for 23 yards and two Bobby Bangtson pass completions moved the ball to the Gorilla's one yard line. With fourth and goal from the one, Caniglia opted to try a field goal rather than go for six.

Tichauer, who had missed on two previous tries, came on and his 22-yarder was perfect.

UNO moved at will throughout the game but four pass interceptions kept the Mavericks from putting a touchdown on the board.

Jim Laughery started for UNO and had a perfect first half hitting six of six. Unfortunately, four of his throws ended up in the hands of Pittsburg defenders.

Mavericks Bound For Dodge City?

The voice vote resulted in a unanimous decision to accept the yet un-offered bid.

Some thought the slim win over the Gorillas hurt the Mavericks chances of being picked for the contest. This could be but it has to be remembered that the bowl representatives were treated to a hard fought defensive battle.

The Maverick defense, which has impressed many over the season, played one of its stronger games against the unpredictable Gorillas. Pittsburg has beaten Emporia and Northern Colorado but lost to cellar dwelling Fort Hays.

Offensively, UNO must hope the performance put on by Charlie McWhorter impressed the Boot Hill people. Aside from Charlie, the Maverick offensive was adequate but not overly impressive.

Who'll Play Us

One of the problems facing the Boot Hill people is finding an opponent for UNO to play.

The past editions of the bowl have featured smaller college division teams as evident in one of last year's representatives: Northern State of South Dakota.

Finding opponents that make a bowl interesting is the hardest part of any bowl operation. It is a good possibility if UNO would get the bid they would face either a Texas or Oklahoma school.

The bowl also will not make the athletic department rich by offering them a huge gate guarantee. The setup is that they agree to pay a set amount to the university and the schools can use the money anyway they please.

Line Does Job

It is an accepted fact that sports writers tend to write heavily on the performances of backs and ends and sometimes forget the men in the trenches, the lineman.

A great deal of the success of the UNO offense has to do with the fact that the Mavericks have a fine offensive line. Two players in particular who have done an outstanding job this year is the right side duo of guard Mike Giancaspro and tackle Tony Eller.

Giancaspro

main determining factor in whether UNO wins or loses.

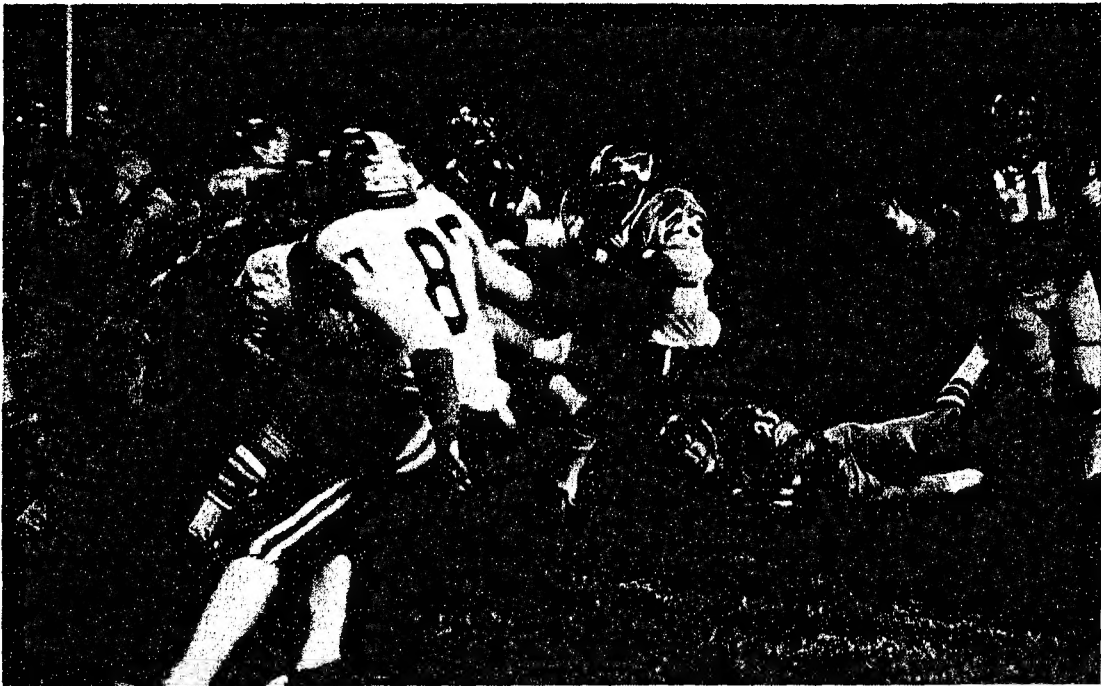

They point out that in eight of the ten ball games the offensive line have turned in good or at least adequate performances. Those eight games resulted in wins.

They rate the Northern Colorado and Emporia games as disasters for the offensive line and the result was losses in both contests.

Giancaspro, at 6-0 and 235 pounds, is a definite all-conference candidate. The New Jersey native could quite possibly be an All-American choice before he graduates next year.

Eller found that the pastures were greener at UNO than Kansas State and chose to play his last year of college ball with the Mavericks. The 6-1, 230 pounder will leave one of the harder holes to fill when he graduates this year.

Both Eller and Giancaspro believe that how the line plays is the McWhorter, 23, sets sail on third period run that gained 16 yards . . . but was nullified by a clipping penalty.

UNO Posts Best Mark in Decade

 on the wishbone attack warranted his staying in for the first half play despite the interceptions. Bangtson then got the call in the second half and drove the Mavericks to the win.

Neither Dennis Harvey or Gary Smith could get the sluggish Gorilla attack on track as they dropped to 5-5 on the season and 3-3 in the Great Plains Athletic Conference.

The Mavericks' 4-2 GPAC mark was good enough for second as Emporia State earned the championship with a 41-7 win over Washburn.

The win also evened the UNO-Pittsburg record at 7-7. It was reported that the contest was the last one between UNO and Pittsburg as the Kansas school informed UNO athletic officials they do not wish to compete with the Mavericks who are expanding their program.
